

THE IMPACT OF $200,000

RAISED BY AUSSIE BROADBAND CUSTOMERS

What does it mean?

It means that approximately 19,149 young Australians have been given access to a wide range of education and engagement programs that promote good mental health, a strong sense of identity and connections beyond connectivity.

Why does it matter?

We're building resilient young Australians within an increasingly connected and complex world. To find out more simply go to: smallchangebigchange.org

"We're making a difference in the lives of young Australians and we can only do this through the generosity of partners like Aussie Broadband and their amazing customers.

Small Change Big Change is growing, thanks to your support. This growth means that we can reach more young people and look at future opportunities to make an even greater impact."

Warren Sainsbury
General Manager
Telco Together Foundation (SCBC)

"Being good to people is a fundamental part of the fabric of Aussie Broadband.

We're so pleased that many of our customers share that view and have opted into the Small Change Big Change program, donating a dollar every month.

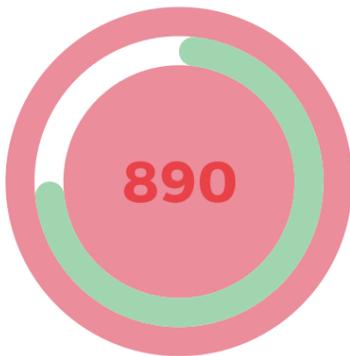

We want to sincerely thank our customers for participating; it's their generosity that has enabled the program to reach this point."

Approximately 555 young Australians who are living in low Socio-Economic Status (SES) areas have been given the opportunity to connect, ask questions and gain insights from industry mentors via an online career awareness program

*Socio economic status (SES) is based on the SEIFA Index of Disadvantage assigned to the SLA in which individuals live. Low SES includes Lowest Quintile and Lower Middle Quintile (Beacon Foundation, 2021)

Approximately 890 young Australians who are living in remote Indigenous communities have been given access to positive role models who deliver an engaging school-based health and wellbeing program that focuses on nutrition, physical activity, aspiration, resilience, identity and cultural strength.

*School attendance rates within remote indigenous communities double in the week before, during and after this program (Red Dust, 2021).

Approximately 17,704 young Australians who are living with a mental health challenge have been given access to a wide range of responsive and effective online mental health resources.

*A recent study showed that as many as 91% of young people who visited ReachOut.com say they got the information they needed (ReachOut, 2021).

"The impact extends beyond the young people supported through our community partners. The organisations we support are charities but they're Australian businesses too and your contributions have helped support over 60 staff who can continue to provide for their families and do the incredible work they do."

Renee Bowker
Executive Director
Telco Together Foundation (SCBC)

"It surprises me just how resilient some young Australians are already. But the world is demanding more from us than we've seen in a long time, so that's what makes the impact we're having so meaningful."
